THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 28, 1859.

BURIAL OF A DOG. On yesterday I witnessed an extraordinary and quite an affecting scene. A beautiful and intelligent little dog, and pet of the whole family at Belle Mount, died, and I was permitted to see them pay the last tribute of respect to her memory. Little Ada was brought from Washington City in 1851, and immediately adopted into the family. In all the remarkable instances of Canine sagacity. intelligence and affection on record, and all the cases which have come under my own observation. I have never read or seen any case equal to Ada. So docile, so affectionate, so modest and yet so extremely jealous of her mistress' person and property. She knew perfectly well every person connected with the family, though they might have been absent for months, and even years.— To a person unacquainted with the very great attachment and affection which this family felt for her, the preperations for her interment, on yesterday, would have been amusing. To see a mother and three daughters, (one of them married,) and a son fourteen years of age, gathered around the little pet, weeping and grieving as though the monster had invaded the family circle and snatched some loved one away, stimulated my lachmyral glands to an increased secretion, and through sympathy with the family, I could not but weep. She was neatly shrouded and deposited in a coffin, and last night we buried her beneath the wide-spreading 1 Prize of $50,000 1 Prize of $1.500 branches of two majestic cedars.—Raleigh

INTERESTING TO DOMESTICS AND HOUSE-KEEPERS .- A case of interest to domestics and housekeepers was tried in the Court of Sessions in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, which is thus reported in the Ledger: A servant brought an action of assault and battery against her employer. She alleged that she had been ordered to leave the house, and that, on her refusing to do so until her wages to the end of the week were paid, she was forcibly ejected by the proprietor. To this story the defendant answered that the conduct of the girl had alarmed his wife and daughters, and on being requested to leave, she refused. He then ordered her to pack her goods, and he would pay her wages .-This she refused to do, and immediately ran screaming through the hall into the street, and there raised a great outery. Witnesses were called to prove that she was not touched by any one in the family, and that she left voluntarily and in the manner above des-

Judge Allison charged the jury that if the story of the defendant was true, he should be acquitted, and as an example, the costs placed upon the prosecutrix. It was, he said, a great mistake on the part of servants to plain, and give their Post Office, County, and imagine they were mistresses of the household. They must leave a house as soon as ordered out, no matter whether their wages when ordered, then the master is justified in using such force as is necessary to remove The jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and ordered the prosecutrix to pay the Judge Allison then called her up and said put the costs on you; and I think very properly as it appeared from your own statement them. that you behaved very badly. If he used no more force than was necessary to put you out, he had a perfect right to do so. In many instances servants imagine that they have the entire control of the house in which they are engaged, and this practice of persons going in and setting themselves up as the proprietors, is becoming a great evil and one which requires checking and the way to do so is in the manner in which the jury have disposed of your case. If a few cases of a like character were disposed of in this way, it would go far towards remedying this evil. As a servant you are bound to behave yourself properly, and if the proprietor orders you to leave, it is your duty to do so, without creating any disturbance. If you have any claim against him for wages go before a magistrate, where the controversy can be settled. The idea that servants can act as they please is a great error, and must be dispelled. You must remain in custody until the costs are paid."

Some tavern jokers hailed a clergyman in Nashua, New Hampshire, the other day, with a request that he would settle a dispute among them. "What about?" said he.—
"Tell us how old the devil is!" they answered. "Keep your own family records, gentlemen, keep your own family records," said he; and the fellow who said he could "head off the minister" went in, and, we regret to say-

THE FORENSIC "WE."-Barristers have ludicrous habit of identifying themselves with their clients by speaking in the plural number. "Gentlemen of the jury," luminary of the western circuit, "at the moment the policeman says he saw us in the tap, I will prove that we were locked up in the station-house, in a state of intoxication.'

CAPITAL OVER $250,000, AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING The Charter of this Company offers more favora ble advantages to the farmer and others, than at other Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicaprefer, he can pay the full amount of the premise in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for tayears, the insured saves one eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the in sured saves nearly one-half of the amount charge by Stock Companies, when insuring from year year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of THE CASH AND MUTUAL PRINCIPLE.

This Company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by fire, on the 16th March, 1854, since which time over five thousant seven hundred persons have insured and became members of the Company, and over thirty the sand dollars have been paid for losses. Have trebled our business during the past year, we is grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed up the Company thus far, and for its flattering propects of future usefulness. The Directors have and believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a right system of economy, they will establish for the Company a reputation for cheapness and safets not surpassed by any Company in the U.
